Indian Ed. Budget Scalped

By Mark Walker
Staff Writer

Six days after a conference was called to discuss problems facing Eastern's Indian Education Program and Native American Indian Club the AS Legislature compounded those problems by denying the NAIC a supplemental budget request of $6,104.

The NAIC made the supplemental request after their original budget of $5,104 was cut 60% to $2,000 by the S and A fees committee.

Greg Azure, president of the NAIC, said that the cuts made were not expected and that the Legislature's action is "excluding our culture."

In denying the budget request, the Legislature pointed out that it is no longer the intent of that body to fund any student club or organization, leaving that responsibility up to the individual groups to seek funding through the S and A Fees Committee, SARB, etc.

Six days before the Legislature's action, a conference concerning the IEP and NAIC was held in the Long House, center for Indian activities.

Sponsored by the NAIC, the conference was called to review the history of the IEP at Eastern and to discuss current problems and future directions for both the IEP and NAIC.

In attendance at the conference were area tribal leaders, and IEP specialists, including Ron Half Moon, director of the IEP at WSU. Also in attendance was Mel Tanasket, president of the National Congress of American Indians.

Among the problems discussed was the lack of a director for the IEP, lack of Indian personnel on the staff, and the difficulty in securing funds for programs the NAIC wishes to sponsor.

The former director of the IEP resigned in September and, so far, efforts to find a new director have proven futile. According to Azure, the lack of direction has "seriously hurt the program."

Dr. Henry York Steiner, Dean of Undergraduate Affairs and administrative officer for the IEP says that qualified candidates are difficult to locate at this point in the academic year and that he is currently pursuing applicants.

Another issue raised by the NAIC points out the varied discrepancies between the NAIC and the Black Student Union and the IEP and Black Education Program.

The current budget for the BSU, which has a membership of 151 students, is $10,700, whereas the NAIC, which has 211 student members, is budgeted $2,000. On a per capita basis alone BSU students are receiving $70 a head, while NAIC students receive $9.43.

The Black Education Program has a departmental standing, whereas the IEP does not. "We are under direct control of the administration and should have departmental standing after receiving six years of federal funding," said Azure.

Another complaint is that all BEP classes apply towards general studies requirements and none of the classes offered by the IEP do.

The staff of the IEP currently contains only one Indian—Azure. The staff of the BEP is manned completely by Black personnel.

"There hasn't been a conscientious effort to recruit an Indian staff and one of the recommendations of the conference was that the hiring policies of the Affirmative Action Program be looked into."

"I haven't yet found a viable body on campus that has more than a sympathetic ear for me. It's not over," said Azure.

Transfer Cost Down

Magic Bus Profits Up

By Ray Spanjer
Staff Writer

The EWSC Magic Bus is finally getting over its long-winded financial problems.

According to Spokane Transit Records, the commuter service has been making a slight profit for the past two weeks.

At this week's bus committee meeting, Winfield Davidson, bus committee chairman said, "We are making a small profit now, and our policy is to only break even."

In conjunction with that policy, Davidson presented a proposal to the committee which would reduce transfer costs from forty cents to thirty cents.

After discussing the proposal, the committee unanimously passed a ten-cent transfer reduction to take effect January fifth.

In other matters, it was brought to the committee's attention that Spokane Transit officials had not had time to go over the $750 deficit figure that had been reported to the committee earlier this month.

The committee is awaiting further action by STS on the matter.

The Magic Bus schedule for finals week will stay the same on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, while only one bus will operate on each scheduled run on Thursday and Friday.

The EWSC winter break schedule will be decided later this week. Next quarter's schedule will be similar, if not the same as this quarter's schedule.

On the cover...

It's the season to be jolly and Santa Claus has landed his sleigh on campus to greet the holiday spirit.

Santa, entertaining Dressler residents Risa Ragland and Bert Pepin, will be greeting children in PUB room 125 Thursday, Friday and all next week from 2 to 5 p.m.

Santa's visit is sponsored by the Pence Union and the Associated Students as a community service.

Santa's helpers will be available to take color Polaroid pictures of children seeing Santa, at $1.00 each. Parents may take their own pictures if desired.

Prof. Killed

Dr. Ralph G. Connor, professor of sociology, was killed about 5:15 p.m. Tuesday when his car went out of control and rolled over into a ditch near Cheney.

A Washington State Patrol Spokesman said Connor was northbound between Cheney and Interstate 90 when the small foreign auto he was driving rolled over several times and came to rest on its top.

Connor suffered a severe head injury and probably died instantly, according to the WSP. The body was taken to the Jerue Funeral Home in Cheney.

Attorney Selected to Research S&A Fees

By Doug Sly
News Editor

A private attorney has agreed to do research on behalf of the Associated Students, concerning the legal ramifications surrounding services and activities fees.

Attorney Daryl Phillipson agreed to do the research after being contacted by AS President Tom Hampson.

The AS Legislature had previously recommended that Hampson seek legal advice to determine whether the students had grounds for complaints concerning the budgeting of services and activities fees.

Phillipson, 26, is a 1968 graduate of EWSC. He received his law degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

According to Hampson, Phillipson has been provided with a collection of information to study.

"Most of the information was either taken from my files or collected by Executive Assistant Curt Schnell," said Hampson.

Hampson said that Phillipson was looking into the possibilities of incorporation of the Associated Students, the legality of the AS hiring an attorney and the legal ramifications surrounding services and activities fees.

Hampson said he had been contacted by Asst. Atty. General Roger Reed who informed him that students were not allowed to hire an attorney with state money.

Hampson asked Reed for a written opinion on the matter but had not received an opinion from Reed as of last Tuesday.

Besides the services and activities issue, student government has been working on a long list of constitutional reforms during the past month.

The legislature passed one important constitutional amendment that established the duties of an individual legislator.

According to a recent AS Superior Court decision concerning non-performance charges brought against Dave Breidenbach, individual legislators have no specific duties.

The amendment passed by a vote of 10-3 with Breidenbach, Mike Selle and Winfield Davidson voting against the motion.

All constitutional amendments must be passed by the legislature and then placed on the ballot for student consideration.

In other matters, the legislature has recently taken the following actions:

—Turned down supplemental budget requests from the International Students Association and the Native American Indian Club.

—Seated Bruce Ellis to position No. 13. This happened after the Superior Court reinstated Dave Breidenbach to position No. 1. Position No. 13 was the only vacant position left on the legislature.

Donor Rejections Explained

By Chuck St. John
Staff Writer

The ROTC-sponsored blood drive on Nov. 13 and 14 set two new records. More people tried to donate than ever before, and a higher percentage than ever before were rejected.

Of the 363 people who tried to donate, 138 were rejected for a wide variety of reasons. The most common reason was for failing the hemoglobin screening test for iron in the blood. A total of 56 of the 138 donors rejected failed this screening.

In comparison, the May of 1975 blood drawing drew 267 potential donors and 81 of them were rejected, but only eight of these rejections were for low iron content.

Nurses speculate

Although nurses at last month's blood drive speculated that the high percentage of rejections could be linked with the nutritional value of food served at Tawanka Commons, Jean Merrill, chief nurse at the Spokane Blood Bank told The Easterner in a letter this week that there are several possible reasons for the high hemoglobin rejection.

The reasons included poor eating habits and a person's sex and individual metabolism.

Students rejected

On the first day of last month's blood drive, 21 of the 31 people rejected for low iron content were students who ate at Tawanka. The names of those people who were rejected the following day were not available at press time.

However, as Nurse Merrill pointed out in her letter, "We (the nursing staff at the blood bank) are not aware of what food is consumed, what selection of the variety is made by the eater, (or) with what frequency each student partakes at the dining room..."

Nutrition determined

Tawanka dieticians last week selected one day's menu at random and determined its nutritional content. If one serving of each item on the three-meal menu was eaten, 39.1 milligrams (mg) of iron would be consumed.

Realizing that not everyone eating at Tawanka will eat every item on a three-meal menu, the dieticians then put together a more typical selection from the original menu and the second selection produced a total of 18.4 mg of iron.

The Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) for iron, set by the federal government, is 12 mg. of iron for men and 18 mg for women.

Iron needs vary

Ms. Geraldine Stevenson, instructor of nutrition and dietetics, commented that not everyone needs to take in that much iron to have an adequate iron supply. It depends a great deal on the individual's metabolism.

Ms. Stevenson also said, "Tawanka offers a large variety of food but it is up to the student to take those that are most nutritious. The best way to get all the nutrients necessary is to eat a good variety of food."

Out of the 56 people rejected in the hemoglobin screening, only one was a male and he doesn't eat at Tawanka.

Women lack iron

As reflected by the RDA, females need more iron than males. The basic reason is the loss of blood by females during menstruation. Both pregnant women and women in the period of growth between infancy and adolescence have increased iron needs, according to a survey done at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

The blood bank uses a copper sulphate solution as a hemoglobin screening test. It is not a count of the iron in the blood but only a dividing point. If the blood has sufficient iron, a drop of it will sink in the solution. If it floats, it does not meet the standards set by the American Association of Blood Banks and the Bureau of Biologics.

PINTS OF IRON-RICH BLOOD being readied for transfer. Recently a large number of iron-deficient donors were turned away at an ROTC-sponsored blood drive held at EWSC.

Don Daugherty, blood bank director, said, "A reading below this division of 12.5 grams of iron per 100 milliliters blood for females and 13.5 g/ml for males could

For example, one female who was rejected went to her doctor and had a sample taken. Her doctor determined that her iron level was sufficient for her, even though it was not acceptable to the blood bank.

Donors protected

Daugherty commented that these requirements are set, not only to protect the donor from having insufficient iron in his system, but also to protect the recipient from receiving iron deficient blood.

When asked what foods were high in iron, Ms. Stevenson said, "Everyone should eat a variety of foods. When eating, large portions are not necessary, but take a small amount from each of the four basic food groups. Even when dieting, it is necessary to get the proper nutrition."

Iron nutrition is an interesting subject. Here are some little-known facts, at least to laymen, about iron nutrition as provided by a study done at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

Man is unique

All vertebrates were faced with a hundredfold increase in iron requirements when a portion of the blood became used to carry oxygen, yet iron deficiencies are considered rare in most undomesticated animals.

Man probably evolved his special ability to conserve iron in response to a very low iron diet and low iron availability through evolutionary changes which were valuable at the time they occurred.

Body conserves iron

It is difficult to study the iron in human blood because no other animal has the same process of absorbing and utilizing iron the same way a human does. Even the rat, commonly used for experiments, is quite different.

Stores of iron in normal man are sufficient to replace losses for three years, if absorption of iron were to be completely abolished.

Because of the various factors involved, and the complexity of the subject, it is impossible to "blame" the high hemoglobin rejection on any single institution or qualification.

AM and FM Shorten Length of Radio Day

Plans are being finalized to operate KEWC-AM FM 89.9 18 hours-a-day, six days-a-week winter quarter.

The station will continue its Rainbow Format, playing all types of music, although air personnel will be playing more jazz than classical.

KEWC began cutting back from its round-the-clock broadcast schedule following the relieving of students from positions of control on November 17.

At that time eight students were dropped by Dr. Howard Hopf for failing to maintain their class assignments and grades.

The Easterner incorrectly listed three students who were not relieved in a November 20 news article.

Chuck Spencer—assistant news director, Wendy

Ure—public service director and Ron Emert—public relations director retained their positions with the station, according to Hopf.

The others were given the option of re-applying for their positions, if they pulled up their grades winter quarter.

The new broadcast hours for next quarter are 6 a.m. to midnight Monday through Friday, off the air Saturday and noon to midnight Sunday.

If schedules can be met without sacrificing academic work, there is a possibility that the station may expand its day to 2 a.m. with a jazz oriented program.

Maintaining satisfactory grades in the R-TV department is the major criteria change in station management direction.

That controversial weed, marijuana, hasn't gone to pot yet; reformers continue to pursue its decriminalization.

The National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, NORML, recently released a statistical bulletin concluding that a "new survey in Oregon shows the public continues to favor the new law."

The bulletin also concluded from statistics that national marijuana arrests are up again. Total marijuana arrests in 1974 were 445,600 as compared with 18,815 arrests in 1965 according to the news release.

"While a nationwide survey by the National Institute on Drug Abuse shows that 86% of the public no longer favors sending marijuana smokers to jail," said Keith Stroup, Director of NORML, "an estimated 600 million dollars is to be spent each year on marijuana enforcement."

Commenting on the news bulletin, Sheriff Captain Braune of Spokane said that before he could make definite statements on the report he would have to investigate it. He was concerned primarily about the methods of collecting information, sampling and control groups used.

"Another thing is that we in Spokane never make arrests for smoking marijuana," Captain Braune said.

Budget Denied

I.S.A. Memo Charges Discrimination

International Student Association (ISA) President Hakeem Adebesein has charged the AS Legislature with discrimination.

Adebesein made the statement in a memo shortly after the AS Legislature turned down his $5,000 budget request for the ISA.

The memo charged that the legislature had violated college policy by discriminating against the ISA members mainly on the grounds of national origin.

Joining Adebesein in an effort to fund the ISA is Black Student Union Chairman Chris Hickey. Hickey and Adebesein are both members of the AS Legislature.

"We could take the matter to the Board of Trustees," said Hickey. "But we want to try to get the problem solved through the AS government if we can."

Hickey said some concrete action has been planned to assure funding of the ISA.

"We are hoping for an organized effort of all minorities within the

National Pot Busts Increase

THE CHANCE OF getting "busted" for possession or delivery of the controlled substance marijuana has increased yearly, according to the results of a recent national survey. Marijuana arrests are on the increase in most states.

Incredulous as it seems, the statement is fact as clarified by Captain Braune who further explained the technicalities behind the law.

According to Braune, persons are arrested for transportation, peddling of marijuana, growing marijuana and possession.

"The majority of arrests," Braune said, "are for delivery of a controlled substance."

What exactly defines delivery in legal jargon is the loophole where most persons becomes categorized as "arrest victims".

Delivery or transporting a controlled substance is effected when one transacts a sale of marijuana.

Delivery also occurs when two or more persons exchange a joint between themselves without intent to sell but merely for the purpose of smoking.

Technically then, smokers are being arrested not for smoking but for delivery of a controlled substance.

The point Braune made here is that the Oregon law, though easing restrictions slightly, really didn't do anything.

"You still can get arrested for delivery (as defined above), possession of over 40 grams and growing marijuana," said Braune.

"And damn it," he added, "if you can't grow it, give it away, or sell it, how the hell are you going to get it for private use?"

Captain Braune said that he doesn't believe we (the police) have served the public well if you pass a law that gives only half way. "You have to go all the way or not at all," he said.

He emphasized that persons should be aware of the distinct difference between decriminalization and legalization.

"Marijuana isn't really legal in Oregon," said Braune "It is just handled a bit differently."

The news release by NORML noted that survey results from Oregon show continuing support for decriminalization.

It should be noted here that decriminalization does not legalize marijuana it merely lowers the penalty for it.

Speaking on the possible legalization of marijuana, Captain Braune said that it wouldn't make much sense to make helter-skelter laws without a good data base and without licensed medical research.

Braune said that 10 years from now if marijuana is legalized with appropriate research done he would easily be able to say he was wrong about marijuana.

"But if we legalize it today without good research," said Braune, "how could I look a defective child in the eyes ten years from now and say 'I'm sorry I was wrong.'" legislature," he said.

Legislator Louis Musso had strong opinions of his own on the subject of funding clubs and organizations.

"There are 55 recognized clubs and organizations at EWSC," said Musso. "Only five of these clubs are funded with student money by the legislature and all five are minorities organizations."

"Their favorite argument is that anyone who cuts their funding is a racist," said Musso. "I contend that this is discrimination in reverse."

Musso said that minority funding attitudes have never been tested at EWSC. "We need to find out what the students want," he said.

The five organizations recognized by the AS that receive funding by way of services and activities fees are: Black Student Union—$10,700, Native American Indian Club—$2,000, Spanish Surname—$400, Hawaii Club—$125, and the Women's Commission—$750.

Musso suggested that the ISA be funded the same way that the 50 other clubs and organizations are funded.

"Recognized organizations can go through the Contemporary Issues Bureau to help subsidize the cost of guest speakers," said Musso.

Bridges to better times

It seldom occurs to people in this era of great, graceful spans; that the rivers of the West were real barriers to the pioneers.

In those days, crossing the swift, treacherous streams could be worth a man's life and, too often, that tragic price was paid. No wonder men pooled their skills and time and risked their lives to erect a rickety crossing that might not survive the next spring's floods.

It was a beginning, though; it made travel easier and safer. Trails became roads that supplied the settlements and took out the timber, grain, and ore.

From the first, back-breaking steps, this required energy — muscle power, horse power, steam, and then electricity — often generated by the falling water of the same turbulent rivers that had once barred the way.

Now, more than ever, our world requires energy. It is an irony of the time that with the need so urgent, organized forces are trying to stop or delay the building of power plants. These plants are essential to the public and public support is essential to the building of the plants now, before time runs out.

Legislator Found Innocent

By Ray Spanger
Staff Writer

The AS Superior Court last week found AS Legislator Dave Breidenbach not guilty on a charge of non-performance of duty as a member of the legislature.

The court ruled that the AS Constitution fails to list the duties of individual legislators and, therefore, that the court could not remove an individual legislator for non-performance.

The charge, which had been brought by AS President Tom Hampson earlier in the month, stemmed from an unauthorized leave of absence which Breidenbach took from his legislative position last spring. Breidenbach was further charged with failing to attend AS Legislature meetings this fall.

AS Attorney General Michael Dills, acting as prosecutor in the case, stated in his opening brief that Breidenbach was guilty of non-performance in the areas of attendance, legislative leadership, elections, budgeting and appointments.

Breidenbach had missed a total of eight legislature meetings between spring quarter of last year and fall quarter of this year. During that time, the legislature budgeted over $1,500 in funds, made over 30 appointments and elected a speaker and speaker pro-tem from the legislature.

"Because of the above reasons, the plaintiff prays the court to find the defendant guilty of non-performance of duty and remove him from his legislative position," said Dills.

Breidenbach later challenged the charges against him saying that all allegations concerning his fall quarter performance were not valid because he had not known whether he was on or off the legislature.

"Any charges pertaining to this quarter are totally irrelevant," he said. "I didn't know from day to day whether I was still a member of the Legislature."

Breidenbach continually compared his performance on the legislature last year to the performances of other legislators.

"No person last spring was as responsible in the area of budgeting as I was last year," said Breidenbach. "If we go strictly by the AS Constitution, any legislator has been a non-performer at one time or another."

Bruce Ellis, who was elected to Position one in the general election this fall, served as co-council for the prosecution.

Ellis objected several times when Breidenbach referred to other legislators. "We are not deciding the guilt of Mr. Breidenbach's colleagues," said Ellis. "The question is whether he, and only he, has met his obligation as a legislator."

AS Chief Justice Steve Taufen, who declined to take part in the ruling, commented on the court's decision saying, "As long as one legislator is not in the way of the legislature as a group, and does not obstruct their doings, that person cannot be convicted as a non-performer of duty."

"I feel the decision is a worthwhile one, in that it allows for flexibility," said Taufen. "No one has to be a full-time legislator."

Under the ruling, individual legislators do not have specific duties and therefore do not have to perform as long as a majority of the legislators do the job.

Minorities Merge

Caucus Forms On Campus

By Kathi Kensey
Staff Writer

Minority faculty and administrative members at Eastern have merged to form the first Minority Caucus at a college in Washington.

The caucus, presently with a membership of twenty and covering fifteen areas of studies, was prompted into existence by former Eastern Affirmative Action Officer

Mylan Winn last November.

Winn felt that minorities should meet and make themselves more aware of affairs pertaining to them.

Co-founder and acting chairman for the caucus, until officers are elected is Black Education Program Student Service Officer Pat Singleton.

Singleton expressed the need for minority faculty and administrative members to get involved in what is happening around them.

"So often you have a situation where one (administration) is controlling and the other (minority) is automatically held down," he said. The Caucus would like to have that theory discarded.

Since its formation, much of the Minority Caucus, business has been kept under wraps.

"We haven't asked for recognition. We've sent notices concerning problem areas and have responded to incidents involving minority faculty (i.e. Dr. Minor) here on campus," Singleton said.

The Showalter administration and Board of Trustees Chairman Jerome Page have been informed of the groups' existence.

"We sent a letter to Jerome Page (then co-chairman of BOT) last year giving knowledge of the assembling of the Minority Caucus," Singleton said. "We received no reply but we weren't really looking for one. Other than that we've done no advertising."

The administration has reacted somewhat favorably to the Minority Caucus.

"If we were just bitching, I can understand a negative reaction, however, we're not.

We're giving possible advice and criticism," Singleton said.

Four future topics for discussion for the group will concern:

1) Participation in college policy-making effecting minorities.

2) Participation in effort to prevent and solve interracial problems at EWSC.

3) Discussions with college officials about expected positions (academic and professional) which may become available to minorities.

4) Appointment of at least one high level minority administration within the near future.

Although women constitute more than half of the United States population, when it comes to jobs they are considered a minority. Therefore, in becoming a member of the Minority Caucus, are all women considered minorities or does the Caucus pertain only to the women of color?

"When we used the terminology 'minority', often we get bogged down in semantics. The term may apply to religious or political groups, however, we are dealing with racial minorities." While there is no specific classification for a woman, she has basically the same needs, goals and objectives as racial minorities," Singleton said. "Yes, a woman is a minority."

The Caucus has no plans of extending its membership to neighboring colleges and universities at the present time. "We have to take care of EWSC first," he said.

A 1968 Firebird, belonging to Robert Seidl, 317 Seventh St., received approximately $300 in damages Nov. 17 or 18 while parked in lot no. 9.

According to Campus Safety, the damage was done to the vehicle's left rear fender and the height of the dent indicated that the damage was probably done by a truck or a four-wheel drive type of vehicle.

According to Campus Safety, the car was parked in lot no. 10 at the time.

According to Campus Safety, vandals broke the glass in a door on the north side of Anderson Hall at 1:00 p.m. on the morning of Nov. 22 causing $250 in damage.

Tawanka was borrowing the ball from Cheney High School.

A 1972 Chevrolet Nova, belonging to Steve Fox of Sutton Hall, received $150 worth of damages to the left rear corner panel on Nov. 18 or 19.

Campus Safety said the vehicle was parked in lot no. 2 at the time the damage was done.

A ten-speed bicycle belonging to Bruce Frauman of Dressler Hall was stolen between Nov. 13 and 20.

Campus Safety said the Peugeot bike, reportedly valued at $120 has a Menlo Park, Cal. license.

A ten-speed Takara bicycle valued at $140 was stolen from the bicycle room at Dryden Hall between Nov. 8 and 24.

The bicycle belongs to Katherine Powell of Dryden.

An Oldsmobile F-85, belonging to Kym Dalgarm, 23331 W. Sharp, sustained $150 in damages when the tires on the right side of the vehicle were flattened and the right rear door handle was ripped off Nov. 22.

A stove fire in a trailer at Presnell's Trailer Court Nov. 26 caused approximately $200 in damages to the hood and fan of the stove, according to the Cheney Fire Department.

The occupant of the trailer, Brian Williams, reportedly extinguished the fire before Cheney firemen arrived on the scene.

WashPIRG Organizes Here

By Mike Miller
Staff Writer

What is "WashPirg"? Is it a new laundry soap? Not quite.

"WashPIRG" stands for Washington Public Interest Research Group, which is designed to make the public aware of consumer rip-offs and bring about change in laws to protect the consumer.

WashPIRG is organizing an EWSC chapter, which will become one of many PIRG groups in 20 states and 140 college campuses.

Dave Hardy, state treasurer for WashPIRG and head of organizing the EWSC chapter feels an organization like this will allow students to "get involved" and "work within the system" to reform laws in the way of consumer protection.

The idea of PIRG was originated in 1970 by Ralph Nader, with the first two chapters in Oregon and Minnesota. The Oregon chapter (OsPIRG) was instrumental in stopping the repeal of the bottle bill which would ban returnable bottles, thus adding to the litter problem in that state.

Each chapter is funded by the students and is responsible to only the students.

When students register for the current quarter, they will be asked to pay an additional $2.00 for the WashPIRG funding. Students may for any reason, request a refund in cash upon request. The $2.00 collected will go to salaries of the lawyers, economists, and scientists working full-time to help give the organization or chapter some legal bite.

Each chapter of WashPIRG will have a representative on campus to listen to any complaint and investigate the student's claim. If the problem becomes too large for the campus chapter to handle, WashPIRG's State Board will be asked to aid in solving the problem and start any necessary action.

There will be a petition drive Monday at 12:00 p.m. in the PUB (3E) to explain WashPIRG and to attain at least 50 per cent of the students signatures needed for the petition to be presented to the Board of Trustees for campus approval.

Classes Celebrate '76

By Colleen McFarland
Staff Writer

A new Bicentennial Activity Workshop is scheduled for January 14, 1976 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in Patterson Auditorium.

Americans across the nation are planning and participating in special activities to celebrate our country's forthcoming Bicentennial.

The Bicentennial Activities Program now offered at EWSC is not only a great opportunity to earn a college credit but also offers students a chance to participate in the fun and create something of their own.

"It is still hoped that more students will want to get really involved and we've made it as easy for them as we can," says Glen Fuglsby, EWSC Chairman for Bicentennial Activities.

The workshop will have three primary objectives: —to explain plans and hopes of the American Revolution

Bicentennial Administration and those of our state.

—to describe Bicentennial programs, ideas, activities being planned and those now in progress.

—to encourage and assist participants in development of programs and activities of their own.

To earn that college credit, grading - PASS/NO CREDIT, and become an active participant in the Bicentennial celebrations, take note of the following simple procedures:

—Register for GS 497 - Bicentennial Activities

—Attend the Bicentennial Activities Planning Workshop.

—Develop an initial activity plan at the workshop.

—Implement the plan during the 1975-76 school year.

—When the activity has been carried out, submit a Bicentennial Activity form signed by an appropriate authority verifying the plan has been carried out and mail to Glen Fuglsby, Cheney Hall, EWSC.

Tenant Rights Examined

Cohabitation Versus the Law

By Carla Anderson
Associate Editor

A little knowledge can be a dangerous thing, or so many landlords would say if renters were to be in possession of it.

The knowledge of the laws against discrimination could give renters or potential renters a degree of power over their situation.

Under chapter 49.60 of the Revised Code of Washington it is considered an unfair practice to discriminate on the basis of race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status in any real estate transaction, including rental agreements.

Landlords therefore have no right under the law to refuse tenancy to unmarried couples, according to the Human Rights Commission interpretation.

Some landlords claim that it is illegal for unwed couples to live together, along with being immoral.

The law prohibiting cohabitation of unmarrieds, although still on the books, is largely ignored. The 1909 law, Title XIV Chapter 6, reads "Every person who shall lewdly and viciously cohabit with another, not the husband or wife of such, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor."

"It is the very wording of this blue law that makes it obsolete, a Human Rights Commission spokesman said. "Afterall, what do we define as lewd or vicious?"

The Human Rights Commission in Spokane, which has received 400 or more complaints about discrimination in employment, has received only about fifteen reports concerning tenancy.

Ignorance of the laws against discrimination that deal with rental agreements is probably the reason for the low number, the spokesman said.

But knowledge of the laws against discrimination is not going to insure a person automatic tenancy.

A landlord can still set his own criteria, so long as he does not make it known that his reasons for refusing tenancy are among those prohibited by law.

Even a blatant refusal to rent because a couple is unmarried could present some problems, since the courts as yet have not made any ruling on whether marital status was meant to apply to unmarried couples.

There is a recourse, however, for those claiming to be aggrieved of an alleged unfair practice.

A complaint may be filed with the Human Rights Commission within six months of the incident, naming the person or persons alleged to have committed the unfair practice.

The board will then investigate the complaint and make a finding as to whether there is reasonable cause to believe that an unfair practice has been committed.

If the board finds reasonable cause to believe that an unfair practice has indeed been committed, its staff will make endeavors to eliminate that practice by conference, conciliation and persuasion.

The board may also incorporate the court within the county where the alleged practice took place for the enforcement of any orders made by the board.

Walking off the Job

By Rob Strenge
Managing Editor

We're throwing in the towel...

This is our last issue this quarter. You'll just have to face a week of finals on your own. We've said our say and done our done and even had it done right back to us on more than a single memorable occasion. But then, no one ever promised it would be all bylines, big scoops and bring your own beer.

It was the subtle, seductive quality of that last Thanksgiving weekend that ground the presses to a halt. One taste of poultry and a quick nip of seasonal cheer and we were hooked—holiday junkies for the next five weeks. We're not even going to try to kick the habit.

So you can stay here if you have to or want to. As they say down at Burger King, "Have it your way." But we're leaving town. Having supped of all the splendor that is Cheney, Washington, we're headed for the bus stop.

We're packin' up, pilin' on, pullin' out, pushin' off and probably puttin' plenty of distance between we and thee.

And you won't hear us exclaim, as we pull out of sight, "Merry Christmas to all!"—it's just too damn trite.

Santa The Pinko

By J. Burch
Political Editor

You'd better not pout, you'd better not cry, you'd better watch out, I'm telling you why... Santa Claus is a commie.

A committee of senior American officials has just completed a report, scheduled to be issued within the next few days, which reportedly states that the traditional custom of honoring the plump old gentleman with the oversized Flexible Flyer and eight tiny animals is actually a plot conceived by pre-Nazi Germans and later embraced by the post-revolutionary communistic bloc.

Santa Claus, according to the report, is a bastardization of the old Prusso-Germanic phrase "Sinter Clause", which literally means "he who gives things away in the name of the people's revolution."

The Committee To Investigate Santa (CIS) said they were first made aware of the conspiracy through a letter to the editor of the National Review. The letter pointed out that Claus wore a RED suit, drove a RED sleigh and has been seen consorting with a suspicious character known only as Rudolph the RED.

The practice of giving away something for nothing has also given the committee indications of the true intent of the bearded degrader of American youth.

This practice, more than any of the above mentioned pieces of evidence, is reportedly what gave the old codger away, since everyone knows that giving something for nothing is an exclusive prerogative of the federal government.

Deficiencies Explained

Dear Editor,
Nutrition is related to health, but it is not correct that the blood bank nurses attribute the hemoglobin reject rate at the blood drawing, to food served at the Tawanka dining room. No direct quote is contained in your article to verify such a comment source.

Indeed, if such a quote were available, it would not be of value.

The nursing staff at the blood bank have no knowledge of the food value served at Tawanka. Further and just as importantly, we are not aware of what food is consumed, what selection of the variety is made by the eater, or what frequency each student partakes at the dining room; or in fact, what number of those so rejected eat at Tawanka. The nursing staff simply is not privy to such information and therefore, not qualified to comment.

It is pertinent to note that a hemoglobin screening is accomplished rather than a hematocrit value. Additionally, hemoglobin requirements are protective of the donor. A person is not necessarily iron deficient when rejected as a blood donor by this screening method.

Confusion or embarrassment to the Easterner, students and Tawanka staff caused by relating the hemoglobin rejection to food value at the Tawanka is regrettable. We apologize for whatever part we may have had in an area beyond our knowledge.

We congratulate the students for their participation in the blood drive. Good health is promoted by this intimate sharing.

Thank you,
Jean Merrill, R.N.
Chief Nurse

P.S. We thought the photography accompanying the article was excellent.

Purposes Listed

Dear Editor,
I would like to make a clarification to a quote attributed to me in your article "Information Center Set Up To Promote Understanding."

I fear that to say "Environmental policy will be formed at the Center" will lead your readers to believe the Center is a policy making facility. This is not true unless one sees the Center as representing the entire Spokane County Community.

The Center will only inform the citizenry of particular issues and information; then it will be up to the citizen to form policy. The Center is being established to encourage the people to become active and imaginative about their futures.

Unfortunately, it seems as though thus far governments have been unresponsive to the people because of the people's failure to recognize situations and inform their representation. In a sense we have all gotten what we have asked for, or not asked for, whatever the case may be.

Take Nuclear Power as an example. The Center may inform its members that nuclear reactors produce plutonium as a by-product of its energy making process, and that this plutonium is the most dangerous poison known to mankind—remaining poisonous longer than 100,000 years. We could also tell then that "about 500,000 gallons of high-level wastes" have already leaked at Hanford, Wn. storage sites. But then the Center's function will be done.

From that point on, it

Vandals Beware

Dear Editor,

It seems along with false fire alarms and burning elevators EWSC also has its share of car vandalism. I just read of how other people's cars were being ripped off and damaged, but, in this case, company is no comfort.

Last week, I went out to my car and found two very large dents put into my car. I was parked in such a way that a car could not have gotten alongside of me, and there were mud prints on the car where feet had been at work, so I know it had been kicked in. The estimate I gave at that time was $250. That was wrong. It was only around $170, but its up to about $250 now.

I went out yesterday and I found another foot print, in another dent, which now should bring the total up to my original $250. Thanks, whoever you are, but I'm not that uptight about giving out a wrong estimate that you had to go out and make it correct.

My damage is done and over (hopefully), so this is really a warning to other people to watch out for themselves. Park in well lit areas (these incidents happened at night), and where you can keep an eye on them, if possible. Campus Safety does patrol the parking lots, but it takes very little time to kick in a door or side of a car. Also watch out 'cause I don't think the person is after me, specifically, because I can't think of anyone who would do this.

So, to you sickies out there pulling alarms, setting fires, and ripping off other people's property, beware 'cause I'm looking for you. And reward or none, woe to the scum I find getting me up in the middle of the night for a "joke" or kicking in my car. To you other possible victims and present victims, thank you for your time.

IN VIEW OF RENEWED CRITICISM OF THE WARREN COMMISSION REPORT ON THE DEATH OF JOHN F. KENNEDY, DO YOU BELIEVE THAT LEE HARVEY OSWALD WAS ACTING ALONE OR AS PART OF A CONSPIRACY WHEN KENNEDY WAS SHOT IN 1963?

Gina Romane - Sophomore, Special Ed.; I think he was, because of the way the bullets hit the president's skull in the Zapruder films. Because of the angle of the piece that flew off, and the backward jerking movement of the President's body, there would had to have been at least two positioned gunmen.

Judd Watts - Sophomore, mathematics; I am convinced that Kennedy's death was indeed a part of a conspiracy. When, in the not too distant future, the truth is finally revealed, Americans will see just how corrupt some organizations within the government are. I hold the optimistic hope that everyday people, you and I, will have the motivation to stand up and say "I don't like that!", and be interested enough in the system to not allow the people in power to pull shit like this again.

Stephen R. Tafen - Senior, Accounting/Geography; May I just say that I give absolutely no credibility to the Warren Commission because of their failure to consider the assassination from any but an expeditious and cover-up manner. I am pleased to see the case again coming before the nation's eyes. Hopefully, some of the more just and trustworthy men and women in our government will overview the issue in a manner that will restore some confidence in the system to those who grew up under the current demise of U.S. Government by corruption from within. By the way let's not forget that Mr. Ford was a member of that infamous committee, when 1976 rolls around.

Peggy Bowe - Senior; I believe that Lee Harvey Oswald was part of a conspiracy that is bent on undermining the foundations that this country was built on and still stands by. It is every citizen's duty to ferret out the offenders and bring them to justice.

Brian J. Veale - Senior, Accounting; I believe that Lee Harvey Oswald killed no one. The "Single bullet theory" of the Warren Commission has been discounted by every authority on ballistics. The fact that a bullet from Oswald's rifle was found beside the body, only points out that some person(s) could have placed the bullet there. I strongly believe that an independent organization, other than a commission appointed by the president should reopen the case and conduct a thorough investigation.

Curt Wands - Sophomore, Social Work; I am firmly convinced that Kennedy was killed in a conspiracy, while Oswald was the only one caught. This plot to kill Kennedy must have had the support of top officials.

Jeffery Tervalon - Junior, Undecided; I feel that Oswald was set up by government and big business to take the rap of J.F.K.'s death. It seems that big business and government couldn't buy the President so they killed him instead and made Oswald the patsy.

Larry Rogers - Junior, Geology; There is too much unknown and conflicting evidence to come up with a definite decision. But considering some of the apparent coverups I believe there must have been a conspiracy, which was most likely foreign, (Cuba) than domestic.

Randy Heintz - Junior, Business; It doesn't matter whether he was part of a conspiracy or acted alone, the American public will never know the truth.

Nancy Morrison - Freshman, Undeclared; I think it was a conspiracy, but I doubt if they'll be able to prove it for sure, at least anymore than they have already.

Louise R. Herrling - Junior, Social Work; No, Oswald couldn't have pulled that off by himself. As for a conspiracy?

George Duncan - Junior, Reading; I feel, and always have felt that Oswald was part of a conspiracy. I also believe that if the truth is ever known, that this conspiracy leads higher into Washington than we would like to believe possible.

New State Theatre Opens

Diana Ross and Costumes Give "Mahogany" Oscar Shot

By Kevin Harris
Staff Writer

The world of fashion and the sometimes painful consequences of success are pictured in the film Mahogany, now playing at the new State Theatre.

The film centers around Tracy Chambers, who rises from a salesgirl and secretary at a Chicago department store to become a rich, dark, gorgeous model and designer named Mahogany.

The role of Mahogany is played by the actress-singer who played the legendary Billie Holiday in Lady Sings the Blues, Diana Ross.

Her performance in Mahogany is reportedly much more dynamic than that in Lady.

Acting is First-rate

The film in not all Diana Ross, though. She is backed up superbly by her two male co-stars, Billy Dee Williams and Anthony Perkins.

Williams, remembered for his performance as Gale Sayers in Brian's Song, co-starred with Miss Ross in Lady. He gives an excellent performance as a liberal civil rights fighter who falls in love with Tracy and runs for political office after she finds her place in the fashion set.

Perkins, a veteran of many mystery and horror films, does a creditable job playing the fashion photographer who first discovers Tracy as a model, takes her to Rome and gives her the name Mahogany. After he makes her famous, he goes insane and tries to kill her.

Perkins' role as the antagonist is worthy of mention. The acting alone does not make the whole film.

The film was well constructed cinematographically with several montages, including a ten-minute feature with Ross in all types of dresses, paintings, and sculptures.

And the costuming was the best I have seen in any picture this year. All the dresses Ross wore were designed by her.

It's nice to know that although Edith Head is the No. 1 movie costumer, there is somebody else as talented.

Music Adds Class

The soundtrack of the movie is very contemporary and makes the film fit together.

The film's theme, Do You Know Where You're Going To, is a big hit on the pop charts, but there are also songs by such artists as Jermaine Jackson and the Temptations.

But what makes this film good is the story it tells. It is all summed up in one sentence spoken by Williams which goes, "Success is nothing unless you have someone you love to share it with."

Violence Unnecessary

Basically, Mahogany is an excellent piece of cinema. It has no burning skyscrapers, killer sharks, 100-foot tidal waves, or spectacular million dollar effects.

The use of strong language and violence is minimal, and there's no clumsy hero to worship like a John Wayne.

Mahogany blends tragedy with comedy and drama and I wouldn't be surprised if the film takes home a few of the Academy Award's gold statues next March.

Art Gallery Shows Everything but Sink

Four long-time Washington residents have set up an exhibit in the Art Building on personally crafted peices ranging from jewelry and needlepoint to free-wheeling windmills.

The exhibit is billed as the "Whitehead's Display" since each of the four is over 60. All attended Eastern at some point in the college's history.

Artists Create New Club

Springing phoenix-like from the ashes of previous incarnations, a new art club welcomes artists and art enthusiasts to join together in camaraderie and co-operation.

The Student Art League has been organized "to help pull us together," said Bill Kent, newly elected president.

"There seems to be the need for a group of students working together to make art, to display art and to sell art. We have always had this esprit de corps, but no organization."

Other officers are Diane Rankin—vice president, Judi Gisselberg—secretary and Lance Kleaveland—treasurer.

Club goals, according to Kent, are "to find exhibition facilities here on campus, perhaps in Cheney and hopefully in Spokane.

"We feel we are producing interesting art. Now we wish to share it with others," Kent said.

The Student Art League meets every Wednesday noon over a paper bag lunch in the Art Building.

Giovanni To Lecture At Huskyville

The multi-talented, Nikki Giovanni, will be coming to the U of W in Seattle this week-end.

The writer, lecturer and recording artist will entertain an audience at Meany Hall, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m.

Loggins & Messina Rely on Past Record

Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina don't even have to play all of their hits to establish a rapport between themselves and their audiences.

Opening with a choppy medley of House at Poor Corners, Danny's Song, Love Song and Watching the River Run, the captured the Spokane Coliseum audience immediately in a pre-Thanksgiving show November 19.

After Loggins sang his acoustic songs and Messina picked up his electric axe, they were joined by a nine piece band which included horns, violins and heavily synthesized keyboards.

The full hour-and-a-half concert demonstrated that Loggins and Messina are wonderfully musical and that they have a wonderfully talented, professional backing band.

But nowhere in the set did they ever really show that they can be daring and innovating. The music was played, but in all honesty, L & M didn't seem to care how the audience reacted.

What they did play was good, as in Angry Eyes which they stretched into a 25-minute jam. Along the line, every member had a chance to solo and each did a duet with either Loggins or Messina.

Brigher Days and To Be Free received the same jazz-oriented treatment, in pleasant contrast to the rock mood of the concert.

Several members of the band stood out, so much at times that, when Messina was upstaged, his reactions seemed inconsistent.

He appeared disturbed when violinist Richard Greene took center stage. Greene gave the best show of the evening as he wandered around the stage, his bow flashing in the spotlights.

Messina didn't look nearly as upset when bassist Larry Sims stepped out to solo. In fact Sims seemed to have approval to collaborate on a loud rock'n'roll segment with Tim Lince.

Lince played keyboards and flute. Messina worked over to duet with him once and Greene did too. He had the audience's attention during his solo when he warmed up his synthesizer, electric piano, ARP String Ensemble and Leslie organ at the same time.

Although Loggins and Messina were complacent about the performance, the Spokane audience caught fire and gave the artists an enthusiastic ovation.

The band returned to encore with another medley of hits, skipping from My Music into Mama Don't Dance and then going into Chuck Berry tunes. They ended the set with Nobody But You and the lights came on.

Loggins and Messina proved that if an artist has an established reputation, he doesn't have to expend much energy in concert. As long as he keeps winning awards with each new album, the fans will accept whatever happens on stage.

Christmas Comes; Records Sell; Discs Make Good Presents

By Michael Heavener
Entertainment Editor

Choosing albums to review, out of the fistful of new releases the record companies send out, is a time consuming task.

Deciding which album to give a friend when Christmas rolls around is also a terrifying prospect.

Since capitalism reigns supreme this time of year, the big labels run dozens of appealingly titled platters before the hapless consumer.

The point to be made by this journalistic piece stems from a desire to accomplish the former by attempting to mediate the latter.

Two albums worthy of immediate mention are collections of post-1971 hits by former Beatles John Lennon and Ringo Starr.

Shaved Fish is the title of Lennon's venture but more appropriately it should be called Shaved—Plastic—Ono—Band.

Lennon and Ono tend to be politically mediocre in large doses, so listening to more than one album by them is like taking a very hot shower. It hurts.

Shaved Fish, in contrast, includes only those Lennon gems known to be interesting. Instant Karma, Cold Turkey and Whatever Gets You Through the Night are examples.

By the same token, Ringo Starr has bypassed his poorer efforts to assemble Blast From the Past.

Songs like You're Sixteen, No No Song and Lennon's I'm the Greatest give Starr a cleverly casual sound without ever showing his tedious side.

Blast From the Past also sounds as if Starr and producer Richard Perry have re-mixed most of the songs. The new arrangements have more vitality than the originals.

George Harrison's Extra Texture hasn't the same commanding presence but it is an accurate appraisal of Harrison's technique.

If for no other reason than to show how impossible a Beatles reunion is, the disk should be added to the complete collection.

Speaking of greatest hits albums, the greatest hitmakers of the 60-70 transition period, Chicago, have put out their Greatest Hits.

However long they labored on this 30-minute wonder, it is sure to be an instant success when moms and dads start buying it to stuff stockings.

Pick Chicago's Greatest Hits for a younger brother or sister and you're guaranteed someone to beat at Monopoly for the next six months.

If Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young were favorites when together, apart and recording they are beginning to make a comeback.

Crosby and Nash are touring nationally to promote Wind On the Water, an acoustic effort which has roots in the failure of CSN&Y to contend with artistic pride.

For serious Jazz listeners, The Crusaders have released an album which speaks volumes about their attempts to free the music from any constrictions.

Chain Reaction is a perfect title to describe the changes which this album should make in popular acceptance of spirited and freely given improvisational performances.

Also recently issued is an album called The Gentle Side of John Coltrane. This gifted saxophonist was characterized by his unwillingness to sacrifice his musical integrity in the face of challenges from all sides.

Before his death in 1967, Coltrane personally led an attack on the musical establishment which condemned him as "innovative."

The strongest showing on record racks and Billboard's chart comes from Elton John's Rock of the Westies, which went gold on the strength of its pre-release catalog sales.

Better you should stick with John's earlier works, like Goodbye Yellow Brick Road and Tumbleweed Connection, both of which still demonstrate his lost creative talents.

Anyone who remembers Dark Side of the Moon is in for a surprise in Pink Floyd's newest record, Wish You Were Here.

Wish You Were Here is alternately a concept album and a collective electronic jam session. It could well be the quality sleeper of the year.

Other efforts frozen in polyvinyl chloride are Art Garfunkle's Breakaway and Paul Simon's Still A Little Crazy After All Those Years.

Both albums include the hit single My Little Town, which Simon wrote for Garfunkle. Simon's album also features Phoebe Snow's vocals.

Hoopsters Drop Thriller

By Jim Waggoner
Sports Editor

Despite a 30-point effort by Ron Cox, Whitworth's Pirates took advantage of costly second half Eastern turnovers in registering an exciting 69-67 non-conference basketball victory last Monday in the Pirate Fieldhouse.

The contest carried much importance because it was a District 1 outing. Both Whitworth and Eastern compete in District 1 of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) with the won-loss records a determining factor for post-season playoff selection.

Ed Waters scored on a fast break lay-in to cut Whitworth's lead at 67-65 with 1:32 to go, but Pirate Sam Brasch countered with a driving bucket. After Cox tallied a goal at 0:58, the Whits had two opportunities to ice the victory from the charity line but failed.

The Eagles had a pair of cracks at evening the count but the shots weren't falling. But they still had a shot at it when they were awarded the ball under their own hoop with only five seconds remaining.

hung on the rim before falling off. The win was Whitworth's first over Eastern in five years and avenged last season's close Pirate defeat to close out the campaign.

Coach Jerry Krause's Eagles were not at full strength going into the game as two-year starter and co-captain John Alaniva watched the contest from the sidelines because of a virus. 6'9" Idaho State transfer Dave Allen didn't compete because of a nagging knee injury.

Eastern had 14 second half turnovers partly due to aggressive Pirate defensive play. Whitworth's biggest second half lead came at the 10:00 mark, 59-53, on a Gary Brandt 15-foot jumper.

Cox followed with a rebound hoop and Eagle reserve Paul Hungenberg connected on a pair of free throws to narrow the gap to 61-59.

Sharp-shooting Mike Jarrett's 10-footer and ensuing charity toss stretched the score to 64-59 with 6:10 to go, but Cox got open under the basket and poured through a hoop.

Paul Tikker caged a short range baseline jumper for a 66-61 lead and following an Eagle time-out Hungenberg scored. Brasch hit a free throw and Water's fast break hoop set the stage for the nervous final minute.

Cox was obviously the game's most prolific performer as the junior center connected on 13 of 21 casts and hauled in a game-high 13 rebounds. Cox was four-for-four at the free throw line.

Hungenberg hit five of seven and tallied 12 while senior Jeff McAlister was five of eight and scored 11 points. But no other Eagle tallied more than six points.

Whitworth shot at a 54 per cent clip and Eastern was 30 of 63 for 48 per cent. The Eagles outrebounded the Whits 36-34.

In the preliminary, new Eagle jayvee coach Rick Samuels enjoyed a victorious debut as his young hoopsters squeaked by the Whits jayvees 78-74.

Sparkplug guard Tom Rife hooped 17 to pace the Eagles, while Jeff Miller had 13, Larry DeBoer 11, and Brian Williams 10 to round out a balanced scoring attack.

Eagles Host Tech

Eastern's regular season home schedule gets underway here this weekend when the Montana Tech Orediggers invade the Pavilion Friday and Saturday night for non-conference basketball action. Game time both nights is 7:30 p.m.

Coach Terry Battenberg's Orediggers suffered through a disappointing 4-23 record last season, including a pair of setbacks at the hands of the Eagles, but with six returning lettermen back and several promising freshmen and transfer prospects Tech reportedly is competitive this time around.

Coach Jerry Krause's Eagles will be seeking their initial victory of the season after a 69-67 loss at Whitworth last Monday night in Spokane.

Both clubs thrive on the concept of pressure basketball. And Battenberg has expressed confidence in his club's ability because of team depth.

And Krause also has significant bench strength and when John Alaniva and Dave Allen bounce back from their recent ailments, the Eagles will be strengthened further.

Probable Eastern starters are Ed Waters, Jeff McAlister, Emerson Gordon, Randy Dyer and Ron Cox.

Others expected to see plenty of action this weekend are Rob Ridnour, Paul Hungenberg, Terry Pepple and frosh Kevin Campbell.

Grambo Tops Pool Tourney

By Dave Stocker
Sports Writer

Lyle Grambo was crowned the pool king as he defeated Mark Nysether in the Great Intramural Shootout November 20. Grambo, 5-0 for the tournament, defeated Steve Williams in the semi-final round, while Nysether bowed Angie Raya in the 36-person tournament.

The women took to the roundball courts last week with five teams vying for the fall quarter crown. In the two scheduled contests, Schoesler's Shooters won by forfeit from the NoNammers, and the Chumps used the 16 points of Karen Herness and the 10 points of Ruth Schubeck to destroy the Short Shots 34-2.

Men's 3-on-3 basketball playoffs began Monday with first and second round action being played in both divisions. Big Three Productions finished the regular season with a 7-0 record, and continued their undefeated string with victories over Middle Digits 43-40 and a 39-32 triumph over the Wienies. Little Deuce Coupe II also had a clean slate in regular season play in the Six Foot and Under league with a 6-0 mark, and had little trouble so far with a 56-24 win over the Hoodmen. Bill Lakel had 20 points for LDC in that game. Deuce

Coupe also scored a close 34-32 win over Chinga Chops to remain in the winners bracket.

Other Six Foot and Under scores:

Faculty Fuzzy 44, Monroe's Molecules 42—Wayne Buzzard netted 24 to lead the Faculty.

Flacid Floggers 36, Unknowns 31—The Floggers pulled a stunning upset as they downed the leaders of the Norther Division.

Nutty Humpers 44, Wool 41—Scott Florio meshed 19 in the Humpers win.

Faculty Fuzzy 54, Flacid Floggers 36—Dale Stradling canned 28 and Wayne Buzzard scored 24 in the Fuzzy victory.

In the Six Foot and Over Division, EMBO took top honors with a 7-0 record, while Little Deuce Coupe and the Coastmen followed with 6-0 marks. EMBO continues in the winner's bracket with an easy 6638 win over Woof Pussy. Sam Martinez was leading scorer with 22 points, and Rob Watson and Mike Ransford had 18.

Jayvee Cagers Talented

By Brad Kemmer
Sports Writer

The Eastern Washington State College Junior Varsity Basketball season has begun with prospects for a successful season under head coach Rick Samuels and assistant coach Jon Mulvenna.

"The EWSC JV has the ability to play good basketball," said coach Samuels. "One concern we face is lack of depth. We led Whitworth by twelve points and almost lost the game because our starters got in foul trouble." (The Eagles won, 78-74). The depth problem was created when two promising players, Wayne Washington, a sophomore from Tacoma, and Dan Schmarr, a freshman from Cheney were declared ineligible. Schmarr's eligibility is being appealed, coach Samuels noted.

The members of the team are players who will be the nucleus of varsity teams in the next few years. In fact two starting players, Mike Barrett, a 6'6" forward-center from University High in Spokane and Jeff Miller, a 6'8" center from Cheney are considered varsity material for this year.

Included in the starting lineup besides Barrett and Miller are Chris Mix, a 6'5" sophomore from Spokane, Larry Den Boer, 6'2" freshman from Sunnyside, John Adams, a 6-foot freshman from Athena, Oregon, and Tom Rife, a 5'8" freshman from Everett. These players alternate starting positions according to opponents' strength and weaknesses. The remainder of the squad includes Brian Williams, a 6 foot sophomore from Reardan and Jeff Fredrick, a 6-foot freshman from Spangle.

The Eagle JV's, who have not lost in two games this season, play their next game at home against the Gonzaga JV's Friday at 5:15 p.m. in the Special Events Pavilion.

The 1975-1976 schedule will consist of 20 games. Included in the schedule are four games with the highly regarded Gonzaga JV's as well as games with North Idaho College and the Washington State University JV squad. All home games start at 5:15 p.m. and will precede the varsity games in most cases.

Gymnasts Open Friday

The EWSC gymnasts of both the men's and women's teams will be performing this Friday in an intersquad meet to determine each athlete's placement on the varsity team.

Taking place in the gymnastics room in the Phase II building of the athletic complex, the meet will begin at 1:00 for the women and 4:00 for the men.

Men's head coach Jack Benson said, "The meet will be highlighted by many outstanding individual performances including Dave Millard on floor exercise, Kris Bolkan on the rings, Kurt Steinheiser on the long horse, Marty Rask on the parallel bars, and Dave Sealy on the side horse. All-round athletes will include Ken Rux, Kurt Nagashima, Al Smith, and Bill Jackson."

Women's head coach Maxine Davis is also guaranteeing many bright performances on the women's part. The girls are also competing between each other for positions on the varsity team.

Both coaches, Jack Benson and Maxine Davis, encourage everyone to come and see the admission-free meet that should prove to be quite exciting for everyone.

Swimmers Preparing

Eastern Washington State College will open the swimming season Saturday (Dec. 6) with seven teams entered in the EWSC relays starting at noon in the college's Memorial Fieldhouse.

Whitman, Central Washington State, Whitworth, University of Montana, University of Idaho and EWSC will compete in the meet.

This is the second year with separate men's and women's teams at EWSC. Pete Hagelin coaches both teams with Brent Wooten as assistant.

The varsity has eight returning lettermen, including team captain Ken Kallio and Robert Henager, both of whom swim the breaststroke.

Mike Beckwith is the leading distance swimmer. Sprinter Alan Hill will expect challenges from freshmen Ron Fromm, Wally Naeve and Steve Trapani.

Bob Stone and Trevor Sandison will swim the individual medley. Leading freestyler is Rich Engel. In diving competition the Eagles will have Brent Nicholson, Kevin Tinsley and Charles Tucker.

The women's roster has no returning letter winners back. Susan Hodgson lettered on the men's team two years ago, when Eastern didn't have a women's team.

She and Lynee Amend, a backstroke specialist; Shirley Asmussen, freestyler; Patty Phinney, a sprinter; Diane Seman, a backstroker, and Heidi Richardson, a distance swimmer, will all be looked to for team leadership.

Other promising talents include Shirley Baker and Cathy Clark, both distance swimmers, Kerry Dillon, Patsy Lozano, Cammie Pratt and Bonnie Sherar, all trying for top position in the individual medley; Ann Schmal and Lisa Wilson both swimming in the sprints; Margaret Russweil, Linda Dinehart, Janet Hanson and Mary Orr will swim in either back-or breaststroke.

Jean MacCheyne with Susie Wampler and Mona Ornelas will see a lot of diving action this season.

In all scheduled meets, both men's and women's teams will compete except where noted otherwise.

The complete schedule:

Dec. 6, EWSC Relays, Cheney, noon; Jan. 10, Whitworth, Cheney, 2 p.m.; Jan. 16, (Women) College of Great Falls, Great Falls, Mont. 7 p.m.; Jan. 23, Whitman, Whitworth, Cheney, 7 p.m.; Jan. 30, Central Washington, Western Washington, Highline CC, Ellensburg, 2 p.m.; Jan. 31, (Women) Idaho Invitational, Moscow, 9 a.m.; Feb. 5, Whitman, Walla Walla, 7 p.m.; Feb. 6, Willamette, Oregon College, Salem, Ore. 4 p.m.; Feb. 12, 13, 14 (Men) Evergreen Conference Championships, Ellensburg, 9 a.m.; Feb. 14 (Women) Whitworth, College of Great Falls, Cheney, 2 p.m.; Feb. 19, 20, 21 (Men) Northwest Championships, Moscow, 9 a.m.; Feb. 26, 27, 28 (Women) Northwest Championships, Pullman, 9 a.m.
